GRAND CENTRAL MARKET ANNOUNCES NEW DINNER HOURS
Dublab DJs Will Spin 4th of July Weekend To Celebrate

LOS ANGELES (June 24, 2014) –Dreams do come true: DTLA landmark Grand Central Market will keep its doors open until 9pm on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, beginning Thursday, July 3. To celebrate the Market's debut of dinner hours, dublab DJs will spin from 6pm to 9pm on the first three late evenings - July 3 - 5.

"The extended dinner hours will allow downtown residents, workers and visitors to enjoy the Market's myriad offerings into the evening. The change is just another way the Market is adapting and catering to the vibrant DTLA crowd," said the Market's owner, Adele Yellin.

This announcement comes on the heels of many other updates to the Market in the last year, including the opening of 12 new food and beverage stalls and the addition of beer and wine lists to vendors Belcampo Meat Co., Olio GCM Wood Fired Pizzeria and Horse Thief BBQ.

"We changed the opening hour of the Market to 8am to meet the breakfast rush of people coming downtown for work and play. Now with breakfast, lunch and dinner service, Grand Central Market's amazing choice of offerings will satisfy your cravings all day long," said Yellin, who has led the Market's recent revitalization.

*Celebrating the cuisines and cultures of Los Angeles since 1917, the historic Grand Central Market food arcade (between Broadway and Hill Street at the base of Angels Flight) is an unparalleled eating and shopping experience showcasing the best local chefs, culinary purveyors and entrepreneurs.
